August is National Make-A-Will Month

Many people begin the process of creating a will with the best intentions but never reach the finish line. Life gets busy, priorities shift, and what starts as an important task becomes another item on a growing to do list. Unfortunately, an unfinished will leaves families without clear guidance and can create unnecessary stress and uncertainty during an already difficult time.

Creating a will is one of the most meaningful gifts we can leave to those we care about. It offers peace of mind, protects family members, and ensures that our wishes are honored.

By making estate planning more accessible and less intimidating, the Diocese of Wilmington can encourage more individuals and families to complete this important task. A will that is started but never finished helps no one, but a complete plan can provide clarity, comfort, and a legacy for generations to come.
